Baldwin CPAs currently has an office in Louisville. By merging with ABLW, the Richmond, Ky.-based firm will add 17 new employees, including three new partners. Baldwin CPAs' current office will relocate to the existing ABLW office, located on South First Street.

"We are excited to welcome Anderson, Bryant, Lasky & Winslow," said Baldwin CPAs managing partner Alan Long in a statement. "The merger will allow for a greater presence in the Louisville marketplace as well as across the commonwealth of Kentucky and the addition of new services not currently offered by Baldwin. The firm's synergy will allow us to better serve the current and future clients of both firms."

Baldwin CPAs' services include accounting for businesses and individuals, bookkeeping and payroll, tax planning and preparation, audits, business valuations, certified fraud examinations, forensic accounting and litigation services, employee benefit plan audits, wealth management and other services.

"We are excited about our merger with Baldwin CPAs because it secures the future success of our staff and clients," said ABLW managing partner Margaret Anderson.

Allan D. Koltin, CEO of the Koltin Consulting Group, who advised both firms on the merger, commented, "Baldwin continues to attract high performing firms and practitioners with its great leadership and commitment to innovation. They also continue to be recognized nationally for its 'best place to work and employer of choice' culture. ABLW has built a great reputation in Louisville for going beyond the numbers and is known as a trusted business and financial advisor to their clients. Their talented group of associates and partners will be a welcome addition to the Baldwin family."
